

Empathy, Compassion and Restorative Justice: Building Cross-Cultural Communities

Saturday

December 11, 2010

10:00 a.m. – 4:00 p.m.

(lunch provided)

FREE and Open to the Public

East Bay Church of Religious Science

4130 Telegraph Avenue
Oakland, CA 94609

For more information or to RSVP,
contact Gary Hoeber:
phone: 510-290-4279
email: gary@garyhoeber.com

Are you willing to:

- Connect, open up, and become allies with racial and cultural groups with which you have had little or no authentic contact?
- Discuss honestly and open-heartedly the historical and current realities of privilege and oppression to help healing begin?
- Offer genuine curiosity and empathy to begin to understand the values, rituals, relationships, traditions and life experiences of those from other cultures?
- Discover how restorative justice can help heal the soul of America and set us on the path toward true social justice and racial harmony?

Join us for this FREE day-long experiential event that encourages honest, heartfelt dialogue on cross-cultural issues in an environment of empathic listening and active compassion.

This event is sponsored in part by

JOHN F. KENNEDY UNIVERSITY

TRANSFORMING LIVES, CHANGING THE WORLD

A NonProfit University Accredited by WASC

www.jfku.edu

The location is wheelchair accessible.